

Many Survivors of Plane Crash Are Rescued

By ANTHONY WHITE

LONDON (AP)—Battling raging seas, rescuers today plucked from the North Atlantic 49 survivors of a ditched chartered airliner carrying American servicemen and their families. A grim search continued for 24 others—including two children—still missing.

Only three bodies have been recovered. A massive international air-sea rescue fleet converged on the crash scene 500 miles west of Ireland.

The British Air Ministry said five of the six rafts carried by the Flying Tiger airliner had been accounted for. Radio reports that more survivors were sighted clinging to another raft were being investigated.

One rescue ship radioed she had sighted a raft but as darkness fell no further word was received and hope faded.

The four-engine Super Constellation took off from McGuire Airport, N.J., Sunday bound for Germany and ditched at 10:12 p.m. after the pilot radioed three of the engines failed one after another as he struggled to reach a landing in Ireland.

The Swiss ship Celarina radioed that she had picked up the 49 survivors.

The survivors—some injured and all of them suffering from shock—were transferred from the Celarina to the Canadian aircraft carrier Bonaventure by helicopter.

The Bonaventure radioed that she was proceeding toward Ireland while the survivors received medical care in her sick bay. The carrier expected to land the people at Shannon by helicopter Tuesday night.

At the crash scene, men on ships' bridges and in crows nests and in the cockpits of aircraft strained for a sight of more survivors.

The pilot of the downed plane, Capt. John D. Murray of Oyster Bay, N.Y., told in radio messages of his fight to keep the plane in the air. Then he fought to set her down as easily as he could. He was reported to be one of the survivors.

Capt. Milton McCurry of Miami Fla., pilot of one of the returning amphibious search planes, told newsmen at Prestwick, Scotland, there was a strong possibility that the missing passengers had a chance for survival if they were on rafts and could be picked up soon.

The chartered airliner carried 7 persons—8 American servicemen and their families, and a crew of eight.

Two dramatic rescues were in progress.

In one the rescue ships and planes were desperately trying to locate the missing survivors before 10-foot waves, cold and the darkness of another night could snuff out their lives.

In the other efforts were being pushed to get medical attention to those already picked up, many of whom were injured and suffering from shock and exposure.

The 7,263-ton Cunard freighter Andania radioed that she had sighted a raft from the ditched airliner with people aboard.

The terse message from the Andania did not say how many people were aboard the raft or whether the Andania had succeeded yet in snatching them from the sea.

But the freighter's message spurred on the many other ships and planes in the area.

The 9,041-ton Swiss ship Celarina took 48 survivors aboard after.

Three Big Controversies Involve ALC

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The Legislative Auditing Committee met in Little Rock Saturday and found itself in the midst of no less than three controversies.

The scions debated the control of private clubs, the spending of state funds on horse shows and expenditures for a cocktail party.

The deepest discussion was on whether private clubs in the state are operating within the law and if they aren't, what can be done about it.

Rep. Charles Stewart Jr. of Washington County took the stand that whether the clubs should be converted into legalized cocktail lounges is a matter that should be left to the people.

Sen. Fred Stafford of Marked Tree has remarked that such lounges—usually operated in the private clubs—might as well be legalized and state revenue obtained from them.

"They're going to operate anyhow, legal or not," he said.

Rep. Sterling Cockrill of Pulaski County said he favors legalized cocktail lounges "only when operated by a bonafide restaurant on the same premises." Rep. Johnny Boatwright of Sebastian County agreed that "properly regulated lounges would definitely be much better than private clubs."

Lawrence County Rep. Paul Graham expressed strict opposition to legalized liquor. "As it is, he said, a private club can be closed if it doesn't abide by the law. Rep. Ode Maddox of Montgomery took the same stand.

The discussion came on the heels of a warning last week by Rolla Fitch, director of the Alcohol Beverage Control Board, that unless officials do something about the private clubs "getting out of hand" Arkansas stands in danger of becoming a "bootleg state."

Fitch said most of the clubs operate without permits to sell beer and if he raids the trouble makers, they get on him to raid those that are quietly run, but still illegal.

Fitch said the answers is for the legislature to determine the type of private club that should exist and the type that shouldn't. Some are bonafide non-profit clubs with listed membership, he said, but others only operate under a guise.

Saturday most of the legislators on the committee agreed that control of the clubs is the responsibility of local law enforcement agencies and that there are plenty of statutes on the books to aid them.

But Ouachita County Rep. E. L. Mosley said he sees no objection to a legislative investigation of the clubs if they are becoming a problem.

Cockrill disagreed. He said such investigations should be made by the ABC and then needed laws should be recommended to the legislature.

A bill to legalize cocktail lounges was introduced in the 1950s but not passed.

Rep. Russell Benton said apparently state funds allocated to horse shows are not being matched by local groups and he plans to introduce legislation in 1963 to curb such spending.

Boatman said he was opposed to further legislative contributions to the Little Rock Horse Show. He said it did not contribute anything to the state.

"About all these three - gaited and five-gaited horses are good."

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH OF HOPE DEDICATED THIS new $146,000 educational building Sunday afternoon and then held "open house" for a public inspection of the building and its facilities.

RAY LAWRENCE OF NASHVILLE, FORMER GENERAL chairman of the building committee, delivered the dedicatory address. Others appearing on the program were Dr. S. A. Whitlow, executive secretary of the Arkansas Baptist Convention and former pastor; Dr. Erwin L. McDonald, editor of the Arkansas Baptist News Magazine; Rev. M. T. McGregor, Missionary of the Hope Association; John Hawkins, of Hope, present general chairman of the building committee; Perry Moses of Hope, chairman of the construction committee; Hubert Thrash of Hope, superintendent of Sunday School. The Baptist choir furnished music for the occasion.

DR. GEORGE L. BALENTINE, PASTOR, PRAISED THE membership for its efforts in erecting the new two-story air-conditioned structure, which is the first step in a $400,000 building project for the church.

Union Leader Thinks ARA Is Absurd

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Bill Becker, secretary-treasurer of the Arkansas State AFL-CIO, said Sunday night the Arkansas Free Enterprise Association made an absurd charge when it asked that the federal Area Redevelopment Administration be investigated.

George Dickinson, executive director of the association, said Saturday the ARA should be investigated to learn if it is dominated by labor unions.

This followed on the announcement that Star City had repealed an anti-labor union ordinance to get a loan from the ARA. Becker wrote the mayors of six Arkansas cities, Marked Tree, Osceola, Nashville, DeWitt, Trumann and Harrisburg—about the Star City case.

"The anti-union licensing ordinance repealed in Star City and those now in effect in several other Arkansas towns are Hitlerian in nature," Becker said.

"They are not designed to raise revenue, but rather are purposely aimed at abolishing unions entirely," he said.

Becker also said the U.S. Supreme Court has outlawed such ordinances. He said they abridge the freedoms of speech, assembly and equal protection under the law.

"We would not expect the federal government to make a loan to a country that has denied individual liberties and sacred freedoms to its citizens," Becker said.

He added: "So should we not expect our government to help finance an industry in a town where officials in office demonstrate disregard for the Democratic ideals we cherish."

The officials were not identified.

Dickinson charged that the ARA was acting in behalf of labor unions, and to the detriment of business, when Star City had to repeal its ordinance to get the ARA loan.

But Becker said Sunday the ARA acted not in behalf of unions, but "in behalf of millions of taxpayers who are appalled at these Hitler-type ordinances to inimical to our way of life."

The Arkansas Free Enterprise Association was incorporated in 1946 with one of its objectives being the preservation of the Right to Work Amendment in Arkansas, the first in the United States.

Dickinson said the associations' 4,000 members had been asked to write Arkansas congressmen asking a probe of the ARA.

SHREVEPORT, La. (AP)—Bob Wimberly of Little Rock, Ark., was elected first lieutenant governor Saturday at the 10th district Advertising Federation of America meeting here. Tom McHale of Dallas, Tex., was chosen governor. The district includes Arkansas, Louisiana, Texas and Oklahoma.

VA to Sell Mortgages on 300 Homes

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The Regional office of the Veterans Administration has announced plans to sell 300 home mortgages with a total value of $1.75 million.

The VA said the sale will be at reduced prices, rather than on bid bases as previously.

The mortgages are on homes bought by veterans through private money-lending agencies and turned over to the VA after the veterans defaulted in their payments. The VA then resold the houses and now wants to get the mortgages back into the hands of privately-owned firms.

The mortgages are located throughout Arkansas, with heavy concentrations in the Fort Smith and West Memphis areas.

The VA offered 203 of the mortgages for sale on a competitive bidding basis last July, but those bids were rejected in Washington as too low.

The loans will be sold with a repurchase guaranty, which means the VA will buy back a seriously defaulted loan for the same price paid by the purchaser.

Which commission will manage the lake was not decided.

She Likes to Collect Ribbons

WARREN, Ark. (AP)—Beverly Mae Wherry, 16, is a girl who likes ribbons.

Purple and blue ribbons are her favorites. She collects them.

Operating from a 12-acre farm owned by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Wherry of the Crossroads community near Warren, Beverly has won 408 ribbons in stock shows during the past seven years.

Most of them have been for grand and reserve champion showings and for first place prizes.

Beverly won her first ribbon in 1955 when she showed a fat barrow at the Bradley County Fair and took first place in showmanship.

Since then she has collected 51 ribbons for showing of grand champions, 48 for reserve champions, 1962 first places, 78 second and 39 third places.

She has taken honors in county, district, state and interstate competition.

Beverly has a herd of 125 swine, animals of Yorkshire, Chester White and Poland China breeds. Her secret of success she said, is hard work and starting with good breeding stock. Each year the family goes to Dallas and purchases top stock for breeding purposes.

It pays off well—Beverly has won more than $3,000 in the 30 fairs she has competed in.

The petite brownette has other interests too. She is a first-string guard on the Banks girls basketball team, an active member of the school's 4-H club, is pianist for the Ebenezer Baptist Church and serves as training director.

Beverly also makes her own clothes and has won prize ribbons for another activity of hers—canning foods.

Her future? College—to become a home economist, a home demonstration agent, or perhaps the at Fort Campbell, Ky. He was enlisted, a swine judge, she says, graduated from Hope High School 3-1.

Lake Osceola Project to Be Discussed

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Members of the state Parks and Publicity Commission were to meet in Little Rock today to discuss the Lake Osceola project in Mississippi County.

The state Publicity and Parks Commission and the state Game and Fish Commission have each allocated $25,000 for the project, but cost estimates have risen to about $70,000.

George S. Reynolds of Morrilton, a member of the commission, has said the meeting will be to determine actual cost of the project and which of the two commissions is to control the lake.

In a meeting Saturday, the Publicity and Parks Commission said it favors participation by Arkansas in the 1964-65 World's Fair at New York.

Winthrop Rockefeller, who heads the Arkansas Industrial Development Commission, and L. C. Dial of Brinkley, chairman of the parks group, said they were in favor of a state exhibit at the fair.

The Publicity and Parks Commission estimated it would cost $1 million to put an exhibit on the 40,000 square feet of space allotted Arkansas at the World's Fair.

State Violent Death Toll 14

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Two separate traffic accidents at Van Buren claimed two lives over the weekend, pushing the total of violent deaths in Arkansas to 14 for the week ended midnight Sunday.

Brenda Walters, 17, of Humboldt, Tenn., was killed Sunday when the car in which she was riding went off the shoulder of U.S. Highway 4 and overturned four miles east of Van Buren.

State Police said driver of the car was J. B. Walters, 19, also of Humboldt, the girl's husband. He was hospitalized at Fort Smith.

Hertie Blackford, 65 of Fort Smith, apparently lost control of his car and was killed instantly when it crashed into a utility pole on Log Town Hill inside the Van Buren city limits Saturday night.

Eleven other persons died as a result of traffic accidents during the week and one person drowned one fell to his death and one died of a reaction to a wasp sting.

Correction Had to Be Made

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP)—Mayor Guy Brown listed in a mimeographed agenda for today's city council meeting the addresses of two houses he said "should be torn down before they fall on someone."

One of the addresses was that of Ted Wylie, editor of the Northwest Arkansas Times. Wylie got on the telephone.

Blushing, Brown agreed that Wylie had "a very nice house indeed" and said he would mail a corrected address to councilmen.

Billy Sol Is Scheduled in Court

By FINIS MOTHERHEAD

TYLER, Tex. (AP)—Billie Sol Estes, whose multimillion-dollar empire of fertilizer tanks, grain elevators and cotton allotments has been sold in bankruptcy, faces trial today on charges of theft, swindling and embezzlement.

The trial of the 37-year-old financier was moved to this East Texas city—500 miles from Pecos where he directed his far-flung, agricultural operations—after his lawyers contended he could not get a fair hearing in his hometown.

His appearance in District Court here comes only two days after the remains of his empire were sold in Bankruptcy Court at El Paso for $5.8 million plus $1.2 million in interest to Morris D. Jaffee, San Antonio financier.

At one time friends estimated Estes was worth $150 million and he testified his operations were worth $40 million "as a going business."

The 101 witnesses summoned for the trial include three of Estes' former business associates, Coleman D. McSpadden of Lubbock and Harold E. Orr and Ruel W. Alexander of Amarillo. All three pleaded guilty last week in U.S. District Court to five of 20 counts of an indictment charging mail fraud and conspiracy. Orr and McSpadden received 10-year prison terms and Alexander a six-year term.

Estes, who also awaits a federal court trial, has pleaded innocent to all 29 counts.

Estes will be tried here on four indictments involving his operations in obtaining loans on anhydrous ammonia fertilizer tanks widely used on irrigated farms in West Texas.

Estes has been accused of bilking finance companies out of more than $20 million through loans on fertilizer tanks which the state contends never existed.

It was Estes' fertilizer tanks operations that landed him in jail March 29 and set off an investigation by federal and state agencies and legislative committees into his liquid fertilizer business, storage of government grain, cotton grown under transferred acreage allotments and a number of other ventures.

Congressional probes sought to question Estes, who has been free on bonds totaling $140,000, but acceded to a request by Texas authorities to await the outcome of his trial.

The Coffield and Macumber cars sustained some damage. City Officers Chief Jack Brown and Carl charged the Emmet woman with running a stop signal.

Both remain at large.

Burglars Today Pretty Nervy

NORTH LITTLE ROCK (AP)—North Little Rock police have learned that burglars these days are pretty nervy.

A burglar stole into Patrolman Jack Hunter's house while the family slept and took a purse containing about $50 and personal papers last week. Another used pipe cutters to remove a parking meter from its post.

Both remain at large.

Former Hope Man Dies at Ashdown

Floyd Hinton, 63, of Texarkana, formerly of Hope died Sunday morning at 5:45 of a heart attack at Ashdown. He is survived by his wife, two daughters, Mrs. F. M. Butler of Texarkana, Mrs. Carlos Taylor, New Orleans and two brothers and five sisters.

Admission Fee Cut; Free Show Tonight at 7:30

The 18th annual showing of the Third District Livestock Show gets underway in Hope today with a big opening parade slated for 4 p.m. This promises to be the best show in recent years with these new developments:

Admission to the gate has been reduced to 25 and 15 cents and admission goes on at 6 p.m. Monday.

Three free shows beginning Monday night with the finals in the Youth Jamboree, some 12 to 15 specialty acts; Also in Coliseum the Jones Junction Gang of Shreveport will play from 7:30 to 8 p.m., then the Youth Talent from 8 to 9:30 and the Jones Gang will play until 10:30 p.m.

Tuesday night: Quarter Horse Show cutting and performance. Finals in Coliseum at 8 o'clock, all free to the public.

Wednesday night: Appaloosa Horse Show finals, featuring two races. Entire show free to public.

Thursday, 4 p.m. Parade downtown begins western phase of the show which is climaxed nightly by the rodeo featuring the Crenshaw Rodeo Co. of Oklahoma. This promises to be one of the better shows seen here.

The Almo Exposition Shows which features 15 rides and five circus sideshows will play each night during the fair. The carnival is busy setting up today and will be in full swing tonight, according to Jack Buback, general manager.

"We will have the best show in years," says Manager Ned Ray Purdie. The stock barns are full and the quantity and quality is better than in the past. Competition in the various divisions is very keen, he said. The only room left in the barns is for the Youth Livestock Show and they don't come in until Wednesday.

The poultry show also promises to be the best. All pens have been filled and additional ones had to be added. This goes for the swine barns too, everything is full, Mr. Purdie affirmed.

Boy Pushing Bike Hit by Auto Here

At Third and Walnut Streets Saturday an auto driven by Mrs. G. H. Coffield of Emmet went out of control after hitting a boy pushing his bike across the street and collided with an auto owned by Lester Macumber.

The youth, Charles R. Johnson, 9, was taken to a local hospital for treatment. He was kept overnight but was not believed seriously injured.

The Coffield and Macumber cars sustained some damage. City Officers Chief Jack Brown and Carl charged the Emmet woman with running a stop signal.

Sunday at 5th and Paul Street autos driven by James Johnson of Hope and Terrell W. Adams of Fulton collided with only minor damage resulting. Officer Moses investigated.

Australia Down 3-1 in Cup Races

By JIM BECKER
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEWPORT, R.I. (AP) — Australia's secret weapon in the America's Cup yacht races could be its "back-to-the-wall" expert, former tennis star Adrian Quist. Quist, a spectator at all four races in the current series in which Australia trails 3-1, is an old hand at battling back from the brink of defeat. His advice could come in handy. Quist and John Bromwich, down 2-0, won the Davis Cup for Australia in 1939 by sweeping three straight from the United States at Philadelphia. That's the same rugged task that Australia's yachtsmen face in this 18th challenge for the 111-year-old America's Cup. One more victory in the best-of-seven series will keep the Cup in the New York Yacht Club showcase. "There's no doubt that things look pretty grim for Australia," said Quist. "And our boys aren't fooling themselves. But they haven't given up. Where there's life, there's definitely hope." The Aussie yacht Gretel won the second race, and lost Saturday, in what was probably the most thrilling big boat race in history, to the American defender Weatherly, by 26 seconds. That was the narrowest margin in all America's Cup races. The next battle, over the 24-mile upwind-downwind course two six mile legs each way—is scheduled for Tuesday. The task is formidable, but not hopeless. Yachtsmen here feel that Gretel and her friendly, popular Australian crew have learned something in every race. Saturday, Gretel proved she could

Ordeal at Comanche Wells

The sheriff made his arrangements at the blacksmith shop. After Slim came in from his morning rounds, all four of the lawmen took Ivey out and put him in a wagon and took him to the other end of town.

From the time he left his cell, all the way down main street, Ivey tried to talk the sheriff out of it. At the front of the barn-like blacksmith shop, he began to curse. The sheriff, who had been answer him, except to say, "Get down."

Ivey rose, but suddenly shouted "Jah Gitt!" at the team and clapped his hands. Youngblood jumped in front of the mules and grabbed their bridles. Andy and Slim scrambled back into the wagon. The sheriff, who had been almost jerked off his feet, said, "That was smart! It looks like you are trying to make everything just as rough on yourself as you can. Now, how do you want it, boy? I believe you four and old Eb can put them irons on you. Do you want us to do it with you conscious or unconscious? If we have to knock you out, don't blame anybody but yourself if they don't fit."

The three in the wagon hustled Ivey out, one on each arm and one behind. Ivey fought all the way, so that they found it necessary to stretch him out flat in the dirt floor while old Eb fitted the shackles to his ankles. They were two hinged circles of heavy strap iron held together with four links of log chain.

"I've forged these things before," Eb said, "but I don't believe I ever seen a man so set against wearing them." When he had shaped them to his own satisfaction, he pinned each side solid with a half-inch rivet. "Get up," the sheriff said. Ivey lay still. "I can't get up, and I ain't going to wear these chains."

They picked him up and carried him out and dumped him into the wagon bed as if he were a tawny sack of potatoes. He pounded and yelled in his cell, even found a way to strike one ankle iron against the steel bars, but by afternoon he had stopped. Youngblood, sitting alone in the sheriff's office, had found himself thinking, "He sure makes it hard on himself."

Voices sounded, as in argument, out in front of the building. Youngblood stepped to the door and saw that it was Judge Pendergrass and the dude lawyer who had stayed in Comanche Wells. "You can't do a thing to change the outcome," the judge was saying. "Not that I know of, but that doesn't remove all your responsibility from an ethical standpoint. It doesn't mean you ought to catch a stage and hightail it out of here without saying anything to anybody."

"But, Your Honor, I fear for my life." "Don't 'Your Honor' me. We're not in court and this isn't a legal matter. It's a matter of common decency. I fear for my life too. This is the least you can do: Inform those who have paid your fee and also your client about the development and tell them that you are resigning from the case. You might do more: some lawyers might feel they had a duty to the people who had hired them, to persuade them against violence."

"But you said yourself, Judge Pendergrass, violence seems more natural to them than legal methods, and I have discovered that you are right. I'm not going back to one of their meetings again. They'll lynch me." "All right then, Counselor, let me suggest this: some lawyers might think they had an obligation to their client, to stick by him. Do you know the man's in irons right now? Now the sheriff has a right to use whatever methods he thinks necessary to keep the man in custody, but I think it's only common decency to stick by him and let him know that somebody is concerned for his comfort."

"My colleagues got out of the situation," the lawyer said bitterly. "So that's all you can think of—to get out of the situation," the judge said.

The judge urged the lawyer into the office without touching him, through sheer will power. "Mr. Youngblood," the judge said, "we would like to see the deputy led them upstairs to the cell. Ivey lay on his bunk. The lawyer stood in front of the bars, the judge behind him, and recited, like an unwilling schoolboy giving a reading, "I am sorry to inform you, Mr. Ivey, that your appeal has been denied. I can do no more for you and am resigning from your case."

Ivey said savagely, "Why you smooth-talking, pale-face, Lily-livered syster! Get me out of here! Get this iron off my legs!" As the dude lawyer went down the stairs and out of the building his face was as pale as death.

er being directed to the scene by Lt. Joseph K. Lewis, 25, of Tuscaloosa, Ala., the pilot of a U.S. Air Force C118.

Lewis arrived at the scene just as the Super Constellation was ditching. He made an accurate fix and circled the area—serving as a beacon for the planes and ships rushing to help.

Bound for Germany, the Super Constellation went down after three of the big plane's four engines conked out.

Officials said rain swept the area as two rescue ships dove to and began an almost incredible rescue operation in the darkness and tossing seas. Lights from the plane's life rafts guided them to the scene.

The British Admiralty said many of the survivors were injured and neither of the first two ships to reach the scene had a doctor aboard.

A U.S. Air Force spokesman said a report from the freighter Celerina at the scene indicated that the pilot of the ditched plane, Capt. John D. Murray, 44, of Oyster Bay, N.Y., had been picked up alive.

The plane, en route from McGuire Air Force Base near Trenton, N.J., to Frankfurt, Germany, carried two children, seven women and 59 army personnel, officials said.

A Flying Tiger spokesman at Shannon Airport in southwest Ireland said the 9,041-ton Swiss freighter Celerina had picked up 42 survivors and one body near where the big plane went down in heavy seas lashed by 40-knot winds. The Celerina was about 40 miles away when the plane went down.

A U.S. Air Force spokesman at Prestwick, Scotland, center of the air rescue operation, said a second vessel, believed to be a Cunard liner was also picking up survivors. Earlier reports had said the 5,235-ton Turkish ship Adana had picked up 7 women and 2 children.

The ditched plane carried five life rafts, each capable of keeping 25 people afloat.

Oilers Look Good Beating the Chargers

By JACK CLARY
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Houston Oilers are back in stride in the American Football League today, and it's mainly because of the ground work done by Charlie Tolar and Billy Cannon.

And ground work they did—the hard way against a defensive line reputed to be the league's best. This blockbusting pair rolled for 212 yards Sunday as the champion Oilers blitzed the San Diego Chargers 42-17.

This club record-making performance came after the Oilers had been held to only 9 yards rushing in a 34-21 lacing a week ago by Boston, which had fans wondering if perhaps the two-time Colonies share of the money was spent on the cocktail party at the Little Rock Country Club," he asked.

No answer was given. The committee reviewed the audits of the Sales and Use Tax Division of the state Revenue Department, state Treasurer, Surplus Property Agency of the state Education Department, state Medical Board, state Board of Barber Examiners and the Arkansas Industrial Development Commission.

The latter audit was continued until the Oct. 13 meeting at Fayetteville.

champions weren't running out of gas. Houston's triumph put it in a three-way tie for first place in the Eastern Division with Boston, which won Friday night and New York, which handed Buffalo its third straight loss, 17-6 Saturday night. All are 2-1.

Dallas' 2-1 victory over Oakland put the Texans atop the Western Division with a 2-0 mark. San Diego is 1-2, Denver 2-1 and Oakland 0-2.

In the National Football League, Washington upset Cleveland 17-1, Green Bay won over St. Louis 17-0, New York defeated Philadelphia 20-13, Detroit whopped San Francisco 45-24, Pittsburgh beat Dallas' Cowboys 30-28, Baltimore conquered Minnesota 34-7 and Chicago took Los Angeles 27-23.

Tolar has been the Oilers' big gun on the ground so far this season, and added 142 yards in 18 carries to the 144 he had gained in the first two games. Cannon, last year's ground-gaining champ got 70 in 12 tries for a three-game total of 214.

After George Blanda hit Charlie Hennigan with a 25-yard pass for Houston's first score, Cannon scored the next two on runs, got a third on a 13-yard pass from Blanda. Tolar got the fifth.

Len Dawson, entrenched as the Texans' new quarterback, hit the Chris Burford three times for touchdowns, and Durwood Pennington added the other points on a pair of field goals and three conversions. Oakland scored on ex-Texans' quarterback Cotton Davidson's 10-yard run and a 2-

Duck Hunting Ads

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The Publicity and Parks Commission said Saturday Arkansas' duck hunting should still be used in the state's national advertising, even though hunters will be allowed only one bird per day this season. Thomas Hockersmith, whose agency handles advertising for the commission, said the state should maintain its reputation as the "Duck Capital of the World."

Back in Service

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—A silver service out of use for 11 years while the ship it belonged to was mothballed is in service again. The set was donated by Little Rock citizens for use aboard the cruiser Little Rock. When that ship was decommissioned in 1945 the service was carefully stored. It is now back in use on the ship, which has been recommissioned as a Talos Missile cruiser.

yard burst by Glen Daniel. The Titans threw one scoring pass to Thurlow Cooper, and got running support from Dick Christy. Christy scored the Titans' first touchdown, which the Grosscup-Cooper combo set up. Warren Rabb's pass to El Dubein got Buffalo's score.

Asks Taxing Power for Municipalities

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Fred Hickens of Newport, chairman of the Committee for Amendment 50, said Saturday municipalities need more taxing power to attract industries.

Pickens, a lawyer, said most Arkansas cities are now taxing at near the five-mill maximum and are unable to furnish new services. The amendment removes the ceiling from taxing power of the municipalities that wish to provide public improvements.

About 300 people have volunteered to serve on local committees throughout the state in pushing the amendment, he said. The committee has opened headquarters in Little Rock. Pickens said the organizational structure of the group should be completed this week.

Mrs. Arch Wylie, president, was honored at the annual fall luncheon of the Friday Music Club on Sept. 22 at the Diamond "Gateways to Music" the theme for the year, was carried out in the clever decorations. On the U-shaped table were small white garden gates trimmed with dwarf ivy. White candles were also used.

Covers were laid for 23. These included Miss Ruth Ann Wylie, Mrs. Douglas Drake, Mrs. Garrett Story Jr. of Greenville, Texas, Mrs. Harold Brents and Miss Mary Louise Copeland. Two honorary club members, Mrs. J. C. Carlton and Mrs. Helen Ruffin Marshall, took part in the program introduced by Mrs. Clarence Geist, vice president and presiding officer for the luncheon.

Mrs. Carlton gave an interesting sketch of the local music club activities since it was founded. Then, Mrs. Marshall installed the new officers, after explaining that "Music Is Truth and Beauty and thus, A Divine Art."

The program began with a poem "Our Ruth," written in honor of the new club president by Miss Mary Anita Laseter. Since the motto for the year is "Relax and Listen," Mrs. Wylie was ushered into a white rocking chair to hear the performers.

Miss Wylie, daughter of the guest of honor, played a piano solo, "Fiesta." Mrs. Douglas Drake sang "Without A Song" and "Climb Every Mountain," accompanied at the piano by Mrs. B. C. Hyatt. Mrs. Drake also told the history of the Hymn of the Month "The Lord Is My Shepherd," and sang it.

The new president made a few closing remarks and urged the members to subscribe to "Music Notes," the state music magazine and announced a district meeting in Camden on Oct. 27. In conclusion, the club read the Collect in union.

Friday Bridge Club

Mrs. Emma Hatley entertained her Friday Bridge Club on Sept. 21. The two tables of players included one guest, Mrs. R. P. Barlow. Marigolds and Guernsey lilies made attractive decorations in the home.

At the end of the afternoon the winners were Mrs. C. C. Lewis and Mrs. H. C. Whitworth. Cake and coffee were served for refreshments.

Shrine Club Meets

The Ted Maryman home on Yellow Creek was the scene Saturday, Sept. 22 of an entertainment by the Hope Shrine Club. After boating, cards and fellowship in the afternoon, a fish fry was enjoyed in the evening by 75 members and guests. Doing the cooking in fine fashion were Ted Maryman, George Frazier and Milton Mosier.

Military Has Taken Over Shows on TV

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

AP Television-Radio Writer NEW YORK (AP)—It was a weekend on which NBC launched some new comedy shows on its network — and by curious coincidence all the chuckles were wrapped in military uniforms.

There was the nautical "Ensign O'Toole" (probably the most likely of the group to succeed), the Army-based "Don't Call Me Charlie," and one about military school cadets called "McKeeve and the Colonel," about which the less said the better.

"Ensign O'Toole" stars a most ingratiating young man, Dean Jones, in the title role. In manner and sometimes speech reminiscent of a young James Stewart, the play a trouble-prone young Navy officer with an encyclopedic mind and total recall.

"Don't Call Me Charlie" centers about still another James Stewartish young man — this one an Army veterinarian. Most of the opening show was devoted to getting him established in Paris. This one seems rather pleasant and low key.

"McKeeve and the Colonel" has one of the most raucous laugh tracks heard in recent seasons, as well as the fewest laughs. It is set in an early evening Sunday spot, so presumably it is aimed at the younger members of the family.

It is one of those shows about the new president made a few closing remarks and urged the members to subscribe to "Music Notes," the state music magazine and announced a district meeting in Camden on Oct. 27. In conclusion, the club read the Collect in union.

When the Chase Ends

By HELEN WORDEN ERSKINE

Dear Helen: My dream came true four months ago when I married a boy who was all a girl could ask for. The first time Mother saw him she said, "He's your fate." I agreed.

Being a plain Jane, it seemed a real conquest. I'm the long, lanky type with drab brown hair and nondescript features but making the best of what God gave me, tint my hair bronze, play up the sports girl theme by wearing smart, simply cut clothes and go in for chic, rather than mere prettiness.

I'm also an easy talker (friends say I have charm) and keep things humming at parties. So, despite my plainness, I'm no wallflower. After honeymooning in Mexico, my husband and I returned to the Western city where he works as a junior partner in the office of a landscape architect.

Our home on the edge of town is modern and furnished to suit my personality — uncluttered. Everything in it is functional with precocious kids and stupid adults, and the youngsters live every time — or at least little McKeeve does. Maybe the small fry will take the show. I doubt if parents and educators will.

A new cartoon series — ABC's, plunge into color programs — also came into view: "The Jetsons." This is the usual suburban setup — idiot father, cute-trick mother, teen-age daughter with ponytail and small brother. But there's a difference. They live in the year 202 on what is apparently a space platform where everything is done by pushing buttons and launching rockets. A very, very little of this can go a long way.

There was also the return of Jack Paar to NBC on Friday night with an hour program in prime evening time. I don't know exactly what I expected from Paar in his opening show, perhaps a Roman circus with real lions or something else big and splashy.

Thus, I was dismayed at the outset when Jack walked out of the shadows on a big stage and apparently picked up exactly where he had left off — a few prickly remarks directed toward some of his old "Tonight" show targets.

But, after a song from Robert Boulet, he went on to his own film reconstruction of wartime events involving President Kennedy when he was a PT boat captain. It was an absorbing account, Paar's very personalized approach to a piece of history. It had special meaning because it was also Paar's own return to the South Pacific where he too had served.

The program and viewpoint were offbeat and attention holding, unlike anything else being broadcast. I enjoyed it.

no waste space. I'm an organizer; operate on schedule, want household machinery to run like clockwork.

At the start our domestic life was a little bit of heaven then a small black cloud appeared on the horizon — "the problem". My husband was taking me for granted! Though still treating me sweetly he acts as if we had been married 40 years. Dashes down of a morning; buries his nose in the newspaper; gulps the breakfast in less than 10 minutes — the breakfast I've spent an hour preparing; grabs his hat, gives me a peck on the cheek and is off to work.

There I sit, forlornly nibbling at my half-cold breakfast, wondering why I ever exchanged my wonderful job as personal director in a big department store for this. Then I remembered that I love the guy, pull myself together and get on with the day's business.

At six o'clock my husband's key sounds in the lock. I rush out from the kitchen, get another peck on the cheek and he slumps down in a living room easy chair to watch TV while I put dinner on the table. Before we married he saw me when he looked at me; devoured me with his eyes. Now I might as well be a piece of furniture.

I've used to bring me flowers, candy, some little gift every day. Now, hazy a present. Then he poured out his soul to me over a table for two in some intriguing little out-of-the-way restaurant. Now we usually dine in silence. Occasionally he compliments me on my cooking (Ha!) but that's all. After dinner he either nods over the financial news (his clients are big business executives affected by stock market moods), turns on a TV sports program or heads for bed, explaining that he is dog tired.

What shall I do, kick him out or take up knitting? Need married life be so all-fired dreary? —Plain Jane

Dear Jane: It's the old story: after the bird is snared, interest wanes. Once married, most people give up trying to please one another; hence the crowded calendars in divorce courts.

Be a stage manager or orchestra conductor: take charge without being obvious. Shake your husband out of his ho-hum routine by keeping meals flexible. Build them around an intriguing main dish served in different parts of the home. I frequently shift the scene from dining to living room or study, using a card table or TV trays.

And, even though we have a maid — otherwise this column could not be written — usually prepare and always season the food. The essence of good cooking is the proper flavor. Your husband should reciprocate by taking you out on Friday or Saturday.

Chaffee Commander

FORT SMITH, Ark. (AP)—Col. Homer K. Curtis has been named deputy post commander of Ft. Chaffee, to succeed Col. Frank X. Murphy. Murphy's active duty as a reservist with Kentucky's 100th Division ends today. Before his present assignment Curtis was senior Army advisor to the Kansas National Guard. At Chaffee he will also head the 4003rd Army garrison unit, a supporting group.

May Slash Funds

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Rep. Russell Brown of Fulton County said Saturday he plans to introduce a bill in the 1963 legislature to tighten spending of state funds at horse shows in Arkansas. He said the measure would require that local interests match state funds spent on the shows. The 1961 legislature appropriated $15,000 for such shows.

Use the Innate Cleverness

Use the innate cleverness all women possess and work this routine into the pattern of your married life. But don't appear bossy. Build up your husband by apparently leaning on, rather than leading him. It's an art which can, and should, be cultivated by all women — married or single.

Mrs. V. Lyons of Hemet, California, recently appealed to my readers for a name to put on the door of an all-purpose utility room in her home. Each member of the family called it a different name. After two years of utter confusion, they finally, in desperation, referred to it as The Room.

Her letter, published in this column, brought many suggestions. L. H. of Warren, Ohio, would call it "the Notion Room."

Mrs. Myrtle Stepanik of Tacoma, Wash., thinks that either "Variety Room" or "Rumpus Room" would clarify the situation.

Mrs. Davis of Millerton, New York, suggests "The Busy Room." Betty Block of Jersey City, N. J., likes "Combination Room" while her husband prefers "All Purpose Room." Mrs. M. T., who lives in Utah, offers "Multi-purpose Room." She writes:

Dear Helen: I have just planned and built a new home myself. One of the features is the "Multi-purpose Room," the most used in the house with the exception of the kitchen. Among other things, it contains my husband's personal library and a couch for overnight guests. It is so cozy I often open my drop-down sewing table so that we all can enjoy lunch in the room.

Query to Mrs. Lyon: How do these names strike you? Any favorites? If so, let me know.

Send your problem to Helen Worden Erskine. Be sure to enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope and address for care of this newspaper. Helpful leaflets available. Write for "Guidance to Gracious Living."

Production of Eggs Show 3.9 Increase

WASHINGTON (AP)—Egg production increased by only 3.9 percent between 1955 and 1961 in the mainland states, with the largest increase occurring in California, now the leading egg producer.

Other major increases occurred in the seven southern states of Georgia, Mississippi, Arkansas, North Carolina, Alabama, Florida and South Carolina.

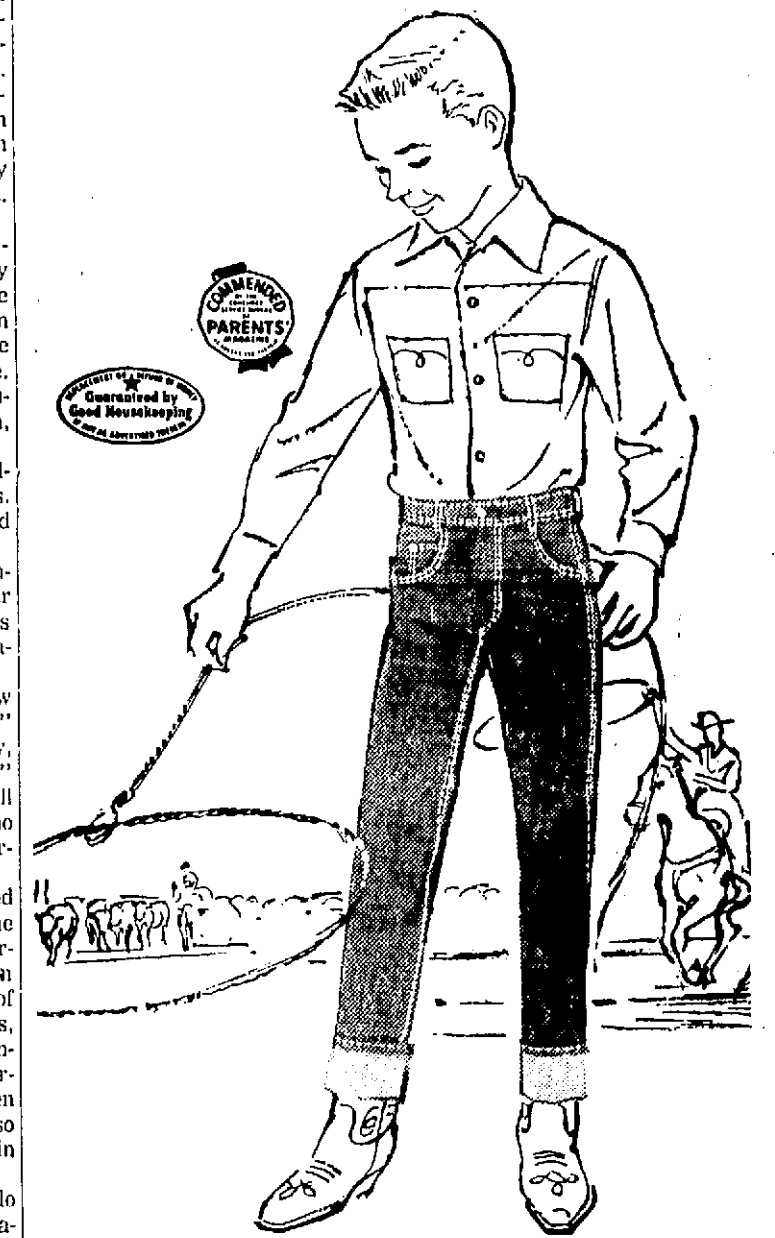

The agriculture department said egg production declined slightly in the midwestern states of Minnesota, Illinois, Kansas, Missouri, Wisconsin and Michigan between 1955 and 1961.

The production gains made in California and the seven southern states coupled with declines in the Midwest brought changes in the rank of states.

California surpassed the stable output in Iowa, thus reversing their positions as the first and second ranking states. Minnesota and Pennsylvania continued to rank third and fourth, respectively. But Texas moved from tenth to fifth and Illinois dropped from fifth to ninth in the six-year period.

The volume of eggs consumed in the country is largely fixed by the level of egg production. Consumers tend to eat all the eggs produced, with the price being the variable that adjusts in the market-clearing process.

Favorites Win Opening Grid Games

By ED CORRIGAN Associated Press Sports Writer

The man in the long black coat, the undertaker, isn't quite ready to start work on the University of Alabama, defending national college football champion.

Stripped of the services of All-America Pat Trammell by graduation and bone-crushing Mike Fracchia through a leg injury, the Crimson Tide was supposed to be a bunch of ghosts.

Bear Bryant's club started operations last Saturday with a convincing 35-0 victory over Georgia, a Southeastern Conference rival.

The offensive onslaught indicated that Trammell and Fracchia might not be missed as much as expected. Sophomore quarterback Joe Namath filled Trammell's shoes, directing the attack with the poise of a veteran and tossing three touchdown passes to boot.

Alabama was rated No. 3 in The Associated Press pre-season poll behind Ohio State, which is supposed to step up on the throne, and Texas.

Texas, the unanimous choice for the Southwest Conference crown, however, showed some holes in its 25-13 decision over Oregon. The Longhorns trailed 13-3 at one point.

One member of the top ten was beaten and another tied in the biggest surprise of the first shake-down Saturday. Duke, ranked No. 8 fell before Southern California, 14-7, in the television game of the week, and Purdue, No. 7, could do no better than a 7-7 tie with Washington.

Louisiana State, No. 5, downed Texas A & M, 21-0, while Mississippi No. 6, took care of Memphis State, 21-7. Penn State clobbered Navy, 41-7.

Besides the strength of Alabama and the chinks in Texas' armor, other points were underscored in Saturday's games.

For one thing, Penn State—unless it stumbles badly along the way—should win the eastern championship.

For another, Southern Cal, by virtue of its victory over Duke, goes into the favorite's spot in the Big Six.

Oklahoma, which edged Syracuse, 7-3, appears to be taking its first unsteady steps on the road back to past glories.

Yanks Clinch Tie With Win Over White Sox

By JOE REICHLER Associated Press Sports Writer

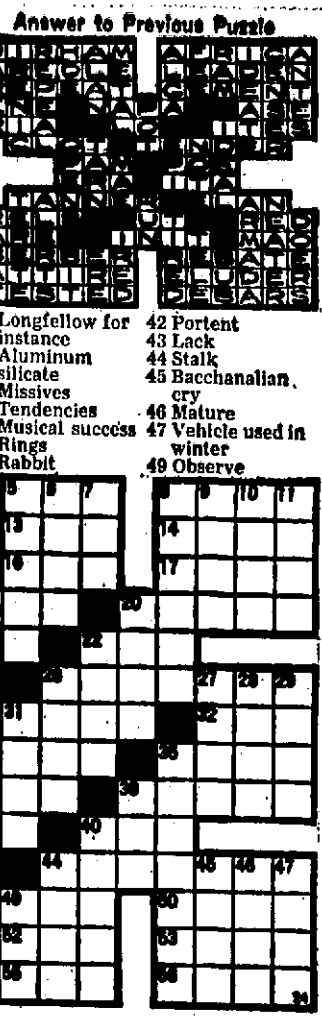

The proud New York Yankees, who hate to be accused of backing in—which is just what they are doing—have clinched at least a tie for the American League pennant and can wrap it all up Tuesday night by beating the last-place Washington Senators.

The Yankees all but nailed down their 27th championship in 42 years, 12th in 14 and second in two years under manager Ralph Houk, by defeating the Chicago White Sox, 5-1, in 10 innings Sunday.

Wills Steals Pair, Dodgers Lose Anyway

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

It's like this, Mr. Commissioner: I have a problem. It involves a bunch of stolen bases. The record book has an asterisk on it.

Yes, sir, that's right, he stole two on Sunday, in his team's 15th game. That makes 97. Which, of course, is one more stolen base than Cobb got with Detroit in 15 games in 1915.

But the question is this, Mr. Commissioner, how does it go in the book? With an asterisk because of the longer schedule this year? Or without an asterisk? Or not?

Oh, you never said anything about an asterisk?

How's that again? "I'm not making an immediate ruling because I don't think one is necessary. I'm using the same script as last year in the Maris situation. It doesn't involve 154 games or 15 games or 12 games. It involves the two different schedules."

Wills, the Dodger flash, swiped 96th and 97th in Los Angeles' 22 loss to St. Louis Sunday, thereby attaining the highest total of any baserunner in a single season in modern history.

So he's got a record, but from an interpretation of Commissioner Ford Frick's ruling of a year ago, it will go in the books with the notation that it was made in 12 games, while Cobb's record will stand for 154 games. The Tigers played two ties the year Cobb set the mark. Wills had 95 through 154 games.

Frick made his ruling in connection with Roger Maris' quest of Babe Ruth's home run record. Ruth had 60 in a 154 game schedule, while Maris got 61 in 162 games for the Yankees.

Wills' base stealing wasn't enough for the Dodgers, however, who ran into a 15-hit Cardinal attack and saw their National League lead trimmed to three games when San Francisco routed Houston, 10-3. The Dodgers and Giants each have six games left, all at home. Any combination of four Los Angeles victories and Giant defeats will secure the flag for the Dodgers.

Cincinnati beat Philadelphia 4-2, in 10 innings; New York edged Chicago, 2-1, and Milwaukee crushed Pittsburgh, 10-3, in the others.

In the American League, the New York Yankees clinched at least a tie for the pennant on the strength of a 5-1, 10-inning triumph over Chicago while Minnesota whipped Baltimore, 9-2. Kansas City won from Detroit, 3-1, and Cleveland whipped Los Angeles, 11-5 in the others. Washington at Boston was rained out.

Stan Musial and Bill White led the Cardinal assault on Dodger starter Don Drysdale (25-8) and four successors, including Sandy Koufax. Musial and White each drove in three runs with a double and single.

San Francisco closed up a bit, using a seven-run sixth inning to break open a tight game at Houston. Matty Alou's two-run double, his fourth hit of the game and a three-run homer by Willie McCovey, his 19th, were the big blows. Billy O'Dell scattered seven hits in winning his 19th.

Vada Pinson's 23rd homer, a two-run job with one out in the 10th, provided Cincinnati with its victory over Philadelphia. Hank Aaron drove in four runs with his 42nd and 43rd homers, while Eddie Mathews contributed his 28th homer, two triples and a single in Milwaukee's easy triumph over Pittsburgh.

Frank Thomas drove in both New York runs with his 33rd homer and a single in the Mets' last home game against Chicago.

Poll Rates Bobcats 7th in Arkansas

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Little Rock Central of the Big Nine Conference, though idle last week, drew all seven first place votes in the first Associated Press State High School Football Poll.

The Rebels, though, were followed closely by Pine Bluff's Zephyrus, also of the Big Nine. Pine Bluff got all the second place votes.

Two more Big Nine teams made the ratings—Little Rock Hall of Fame and Fort Smith—before Class AA's Jonesboro barged into a tie with Blytheville of the Big Nine for fifth place.

The Class AA's and Class A had the rest of the poll, beating out such Big Nine teams as El Dorado, North Little Rock, Hot Springs, and Texarkana.

The results of the poll, with first place votes in parentheses, based on 10 points for a first place vote, 9 for second, etc., at right:

- 1. Little Rock Central (7) ... 70
 - 2. Pine Bluff ... 62
 - 3. Little Rock Hall ... 57
 - 4. Fort Smith ... 38
 - 5. Jonesboro (tie) ... 18

Patterson, Liston Fight Is Tuesday

By JERRY LISKA
Associated Press Sports Writer

CHICAGO (AP) — It was the quiet tension before the storm today in the camps of heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson and challenger Sonny Liston—and also in the counting room for their heralded $5 million title fight Tuesday night in Clinkiskey Park.

This was the day for Liston, now a dwindling 3 to 2 favorite, to end the comedy of gloves prelude to the big scrap. It also was countdown day for the sponsoring Championship Sports, Inc., to get into orbit on the fantastic closed circuit TV financial flight plotted for this bout.

The Illinois State Athletic Commission was to march into Liston's camp around noon with, presumably, the biggest boxing gloves that Everlast has ever made for a final fitting of Liston's huge hands.

The 11th hour activity of the two principals, the grim Patterson, the glowering Liston, called for a final limbering up and then disappearance from their Fox River Valley, Ill., suburban camps into pre-fight seclusion in Chicago.

At Liston's Aurora Downs harness track site, some wrangling was expected as the big-fisted challenger tries on, for the third time in eight days, the Everlast-make glove which Patterson will wear.

Liston prefers a glove, already fitted to his bulging fist, by a Chicago mitt-making specialist, Sammy Frager. Patterson and his handlers feel the Frager glove padding is too thin and may land in the counting room for their heralded $5 million title fight Tuesday night in Clinkiskey Park.

For all the talk of a $4 million closed circuit TV gross, the bout sponsors were short of achieving a predicted 75 to 80 per cent fill-in of some one million seats available at 24 outlets throughout the country.

The long distance electronic viewers, paying perhaps a $5-16 average for seats, must really buy tickets today and Tuesday to pour into the till the predicted $4 million figure.

While betting odds favored Liston, a horde of veteran writers, including a large foreign contingent, gave the edge to Patterson by a 60 per cent margin.

Surprising conclusion of the Patterson-bakers was that the champion, easily decked himself in most of his fights, would stop or knock out Liston—never floored in his career.
